The Power of Networking: Your Secret Weapon

You might be wondering, “What does networking even mean?” In the Nigerian context, it means knowing the right people — sometimes, it’s not just about what you know but who you know.

Imagine this: You’re at a family gathering, and you strike up a conversation with your uncle’s friend, who happens to be a director in a prominent firm in Kano. By the end of the evening, you’re not just family friends; you’ve also landed an interview.

7hubent Tech offers incredible networking opportunities through its free WhatsApp groups. These groups are filled with job seekers, employers, and industry experts who share job openings, tips, and experiences. When I joined one of these groups, I was blown away by how many opportunities popped up daily. Suddenly, the job market didn’t feel as intimidating.

Building Skills That Matter

In today’s world, having a degree is no longer the golden ticket to landing a high-paying job. Companies are looking for specific skills that can drive their business forward. Here are a few in-demand skills that can help you stand out:

- Digital Marketing: Everyone is trying to sell something online. If you can help businesses reach their customers digitally, you're gold.
- Data Analysis: Companies are swimming in data and need people who can make sense of it. Learning how to analyze data can be a game changer.
- Tech Skills: Basic coding, graphic design, or even understanding how to use CRM software can give you an edge.

Crafting a Killer CV and Cover Letter

Your CV and cover letter are your first impressions. Think of them as the flashy wrapper on a hot meat pie — if the wrapper is boring, who wants to buy it?

1. Be Clear and Concise: Employers don't have time to read novels. Keep it to the point, and highlight your most relevant experiences.
2. Tailor It: Don't send the same CV to every job. Tailor it to the job you're applying for. Use keywords from the job description to show you're a perfect fit.

3. Showcase Your Achievements: Instead of saying, “I worked in sales,” say, “I increased sales by 30% within six months.” Numbers speak louder than words.

Personal Testimony: My Journey to a High-Paying Job

Let me tell you a little story. A couple of years ago, I was struggling to find a decent job after university. I applied to numerous companies but received more rejection emails than I could count. One day, I joined a WhatsApp group from 7hubent Tech that focused on job opportunities in Kano.

A few weeks later, someone shared a job opening for a marketing position. I had zero experience in marketing but had a knack for social media. I tailored my CV, highlighting my relevant skills, and sent it in. To my surprise, I was called for an interview and got the job! Fast forward to today, and I’m earning more than I ever thought possible.

This is the power of community and leveraging the right resources. Don’t underestimate the value of connecting with others who are on the same journey.

Tips for Ace-ing the Job Interview

You've applied, you've tailored your CV, and now you've landed an interview. Great! Here are some tips to help you ace that interview:

1. Research the Company: Know the company's mission, vision, and recent news. It shows you're genuinely interested.
2. Practice Common Questions: Prepare answers to common interview questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "What are your strengths and weaknesses?"
3. Dress for Success: You don't have to wear a suit, but make sure you look polished. First impressions matter!
4. Follow Up: After the interview, send a thank-you message expressing your appreciation for the opportunity. It shows professionalism and keeps you on their radar.
