My Personal Experience with WhatsApp Groups: From Struggle to Success

Let me gist you about my own story. A couple of years ago, I was that person who thought digital marketing was just for “big brands” like Jumia or Dangote. I had a small side hustle, selling sneakers in Kano, but I couldn’t seem to break out of the “neighborhood market” circle. Even after setting up an Instagram page, the sales were crawling.

Then a friend casually mentioned one WhatsApp group she joined through 7hubent Tech. At first, I was skeptical. But the moment I joined, I saw people like me—small business owners hustling to make ends meet and digital marketers dropping advice that was both useful and easy to understand.

One day, I came across a tip shared in the group on how to create Facebook ads that actually convert (I’m talking proper conversion, not just likes). I followed the advice step by step. Long story short, in a few weeks, I noticed an uptick in sales, my Instagram DMs were buzzing, and I finally started getting clients outside Kano.

These groups became my daily classroom, and the best part? It was free.
